Call to Worship (adapted from Ruth 1-4)

Lisa Thompson and Heather Macarthur

Voice 1: In a time long ago, when the people were experiencing another great threat to their well being, and families had to make drastic changes to keep safe.

Voice 2: And a woman felt alone, she felt desperate, she felt lost. Full of grief and worry, she said, "the hand of the Lord has turned against me." And she wept.

All: And her daughter-in-law clung to her. And refused to leave her alone.

Voice 1: She proclaimed: Where you go, I will go. Where you live, I will live.

Voice 2: Your people will be my people and your God will be my God.

All: And even in crisis, even in grief, even with disaster still upon them, these two women were not alone.

Voice 1: They traveled and they plotted and they planned.

Voice 2: They were faithful and loving and resilient.

All: They took risks together. They created community together.

Voice 1: And maybe, just maybe, the Spirit guided them through...

Voice 2: Maybe, just maybe, the Spirit loved them through...

All: Maybe, just maybe, that same Spirit is guiding us, too...

Voice 1: So come, friends, in this time and in this moment, let us be community together.

Voice 2: Come, let us take risks together.

All: Come, let us worship God together...
